COHIBA

This is the flagship brand of Habanos and rapidly achieved mythical status since it's creation in 1966 for non-other than Fidel Castro himself. Originally it was only seen outside Cuba as gifts for important dignitaries and diplomats. Finally in 1982 it was launched to the world in limited quantities. When Columbus first arrived he saw the native Taino Indians smoking tobacco leaves in bunches that they referred to as "cohibas", hence the name. Cohiba cigars are made with a blend of the finest leaves from the Vuelta Abajo region and uniquely two of it's filler leaves undergo a third fermentation.
